

OSTER GROWERS TAKE ISSUE WITH EX-GOVERNOR ON QUESTION OF TAXATION

They Claim the Final Message of the Governor Shows a Surprising Ignorance of Actual Conditions on the Oyster Grounds of the State and that the Industry Will Not Bear Any Further Burdens.

Comparison With Rhode Island Growers is Not Germain for If Rhode Island Grounds are Taxed for Ten Times as Much, They Bring in Ten Times the Revenue that Connecticut Grounds Yield.

That the message of former Governor Woodruff on the taxation of oyster beds owned by private planters in this State has stirred up a hornet's nest is shown by inquiry among a number of prominent planters by the Farmer. Speaking of the Governor's charge one of the leading growers in this State said today:

"The message of the retiring Governor concerning the taxation of the oyster beds of the State is regarded here as an unwarranted interference of an official who could not let an opportunity pass to administer a parting shot as he passed over the hills to desuetude. That the Governor of this State should, without investigation and upon a few days' notice, make an attack upon one of the prominent industries of the State is surprising. The message acknowledges that the matter had been brought to the attention of the executive only a few days before. The message certainly shows a woeful ignorance of the oyster business in general and the conditions which exist in this State in particular. The men engaged in the oyster business believe that the message of the Governor is a gratuitous attack upon them."

DIED AGED 109; 57 YEARS IN AN INSANE ASYLUM

Remarkable Case of Mrs. Rebecca Weeks, Who Passed Half a Century in New York Institution.

Sheriff Charles E. Staggs received notice yesterday of the death of Mrs. Rebecca Weeks which occurred at the King's Park Hospital on Long Island. Deceased was the widow of Henry T. Weeks and was committed to the asylum from Brooklyn 57 years ago. The records of the institution give her age when admitted as 52. If this was an accurate record Mrs. Weeks was 109 years old when she died. The deceased was born in Stratford and lived there for many years. She was a harmless case and she was known by everyone in the institution as "Aunt Rebecca." She was popular among the inmates and officials.

Sheriff Staggs was appointed her conservator several years ago and has made frequent visits to the institution to visit her and to see that she was properly cared for. She was a native of Stratford and the interment in Union cemetery.

AUTO ACCIDENT RESULTS FATALLY

Edward C. Gilman Dead and Three Others Badly Injured.

(Special from United Press.)

New York, Jan. 9.—Edward C. Gilman of Flushing, L. I., a well known Long Island real estate dealer, is dead and Miss Jeanette McKinn, Miss Dorothy White and James Grattan, all of the same town, are in a hospital suffering from serious injuries as the result of an automobile accident near Bay Side early today. The car in which they were riding was hurled against a tree and one of its front wheels slipped off the axle.

Two other occupants of the car were cut and bruised.

Count Sera Arrested In New Britain

Serious Charge Made Against Man Who Moved in Good Society.

(Special from United Press.)

New Britain, Jan. 9.—Social New Britain is agitated today over the arrest in the early morning of Count Sera, an Italian Count who had been lionized in the town's high circles. The arrest took place at his own room, which adjoins expensive apartments where a young girl either intoxicated or under the influence of drugs.

Sera said his arrest was the result of a plot against him at social gatherings and the girl had not received after her night at the station sufficiently to explain her presence. The Count, however, said that a young woman friend had brought the girl to him saying that she had come from New York and "had no place to go," and that he had simply provided her with sleeping quarters next to his.

Count Sera was arraigned in police court today on a technical charge and pleaded not guilty. Postponement was taken until Thursday, on which day he was released on a cash bond of $200. The girl who was found in his office said she was Julia White, 25, of New York. Dr. Sera stated that his arrest is a blackmail plot. It is stated that the Count's arrest was brought about by some of the influential persons who feared he was an impostor. If he fights the present case those persons will be said, bring a much more serious charge against him. The affair has caused the biggest sensation since Walker absconded with the savings bank funds.

TILLMAN'S LETTERS ARE MISSING FROM DESK IN CAPITOL

Does not Charge That They Were Stolen But Says They are Gone.

Is Preparing His Reply to Charges Made by the President—Will not Talk Now.

(Special from United Press.)

Washington, Jan. 9.—Senator Tillman, whose transactions with reference to the distribution of certain lands in the west were mentioned by the President in a letter to Senator Hale said today that his important documents bearing on the matter had disappeared from his desk.

"Certain letters and telegrams," said the Senator, "which were considered very useful to me in explaining the transaction, I find have disappeared from my desk at the Capitol. They were left there last spring by my secretary, who is a very reliable man. He assures me that he did not remove them. I do not recall that anyone broke into this room or my desk. I simply state the fact that the papers were there and that they are now missing."

"Of course, I know," he remarked. "Some one who would be glad to get hold of these letters and documents." After this sly dig at President Roosevelt Senator Tillman said:

"I am not at all sure of the outcome of this matter. The President has thrown his bomb and I am not even jostled. Before this thing comes to a head the President will find himself hoisted with his own petard."

On account of his health Senator Tillman is deeply perturbed. That he realizes the seriousness of the situation is shown in the fact that he did not risk an extemporaneous explanation. He has been in the House and Senate are intensely interested in what he will have to say. There is not one who does not believe that Tillman will be able to furnish a satisfactory explanation.

The Senate Appropriations committee met today and turned over to Mr. Tillman all of the documents in the President's message relating to him. The committee will take no action until after Tillman has made his reply. It was ascertained later that the subcommittee consists of Senator Gallinger, (N. H.), Hemmaway, (Ind.), and Clay, (Ga.).

On account of Gallinger's absence in New Hampshire and the pressure on his time because of Clay's chairmanship of the District of Columbia committee, it is expected that much of the work will be done in the interim. The committee made no attempt today to examine any of the papers.

Senator Tillman is today preparing his reply to President Roosevelt's letter to Senator Hale charging the South Carolina with the use of his position for personal interests and with making false statements on the floor of the Senate. This reply will be in the form of a speech next Monday to the Senate on a question of personal privilege.

Mr. Tillman said today: "It is a serious matter for the President of the United States to attempt to charge the South Carolina with the use of his position for personal interests and with making false statements on the floor of the Senate. This reply will be in the form of a speech next Monday to the Senate on a question of personal privilege."

The Senator declined for the present to go into details as to his application for land grants in the west. He did not deny, however, the authenticity of the various statements which were published by the President. "No one questions the right of Senator Tillman to apply for the lands which, under the original grant, were to be sold to the public. I am not at all sure of the outcome of this matter. The President has thrown his bomb and I am not even jostled. Before this thing comes to a head the President will find himself hoisted with his own petard."

Senator Foraker will leave a clear field for Mr. Tillman to answer the President Monday. He gave notice in the Senate today that he will postpone his speech on "The Latest Phase in the Brownsville Affair" until Tuesday.

INVESTIGATE THE SECRET SERVICE APPROPRIATIONS

Tawney Resolution Passes in the House—Senate Breaks with the President on Nominations.

(Special from United Press.)

Washington, Jan. 9.—Another important step has been taken in the conflict between the President and Congress. The Senate has served notice that it will decline to confirm nominations of persons to positions of great trust and of great public interest without first conducting an investigation of its own. Senator Dewey, who had a lengthy conference with the President today, made the announcement. That the Senators may be relieved of coming into direct conflict with the Executive over nominations made in their State without their endorsement, it is stated that the Senate will, if it sees fit, conduct its inquiries even in the face of local Senatorial endorsement.

Senator Dewey cited the cases of George S. Terry, nominated for United States marshal in New York, and Public Printer Donnelly as coming within this category. He said that charges had been made against these men but that their confirmation had been held up to permit interested Senators to satisfy themselves of the propriety of the nominations.

Washington, Jan. 9.—Representative Tawney (Republican, Minnesota), today introduced a resolution which was promptly passed by the House, providing for the appointment of a select committee of five members to inquire into the matter of appropriations made by Congress for government detective work.

According to his present intentions, the President will pay no public attention to the severe rebuke. To the several Congressmen who called on him today he explained that he bore no malice and that he was willing to leave the question of who was right to the country at large.

He tells his callers that he has private case and that was all he wanted to do.

LAST OF THE PEQUOTS

Loses Her Home Near New Haven Under an Attachment.

(Special from United Press.)

New Haven, Jan. 9.—The last property in America held by the once proud tribe of Pequot Indians under an attachment to-day passed from the hands of Mrs. Lucy A. Sarvant, one of the few full-blooded Pequots still living, into those of James A. Roston, of Brooklyn, N. Y. The property attached was the woman's home on the outskirts of the city. The proceeding is for $700 in a suit in which Roston claims he rendered services and money for which he seeks recovery.

Miss Charlesworth's Victims Lost $100,000

(Special from United Press.)

London, Jan. 9.—The police today succeeded in rounding up all the known creditors of Violet Gordon Charlesworth, and found that the missing woman's debts amount to $100,000. The reason for Miss Charlesworth's disappearance at this particular time is that she had promised to repay all her creditors on January 13, day twenty-fifth birthday, on which day she had announced she would come into possession of the fortune left her by Mr. Gordon who now turns out to have been a myth.

Miss Charlesworth was of a romantic, novel-reading disposition and her friends think she half believed the story told her dupes. She misled her parents, who are humble people, and they shared her borrowings under the belief that she was getting the money honestly. The woman is believed to be either hiding in Paris or en route to America.

HAWLEY SATISFIED WITH THE OUTLOOK

Sees Nothing to It But the Re-election of Senator F. B. Brandegee.

Contingency Which Can Arise by Which Vote in Home County Will Be Boosted.

Sheriff Hawley was at his office in this city today having returned from Hartford last evening after a busy week. The sheriff appeared to be contented with the world and said he was well satisfied with the Senatorial situation. There is not the slightest doubt in his mind of the result and he is serenely confident that Brandegee will be chosen to succeed himself by a substantial majority of the votes cast.

The sheriff believes that the ballot will be a secret one, although the question is still open. His judgment is based upon what he heard about the capital in his chats with leaders who are arrayed on either side of the battle. When Bulkeley was elected over Fessenden it was an open ballot, each man stating his choice upon the call of his name.

Brandegee when chosen to succeed last Senator Platt for the unexpired term of the latter, was selected by secret ballot. This means of voting seems to find favor with most of the men who have the votes to cast next Tuesday when the decision will be made as to whether it shall be Hill or Brandegee.

It seems to be accepted that neither side will waste any time by nominating speeches. If the caucus meets in the past week, designated, 2 o'clock, and gets down to business the result will be known within an hour, for it is conceded that the first ballot will tell the story.

Concerning the vote of Fairfield county there is much speculation of an interesting character. There can be no question but that Hill has picked up strength in his own county with in the past week. Before that time the Brandegee men in this county were sure of more votes than they care to boast of today. It is said that there has been considerable talk of the forces of the New London man down Greenwich way. Judge "Jim" Walsh is said to have been flirting with each side. While Chairman Kenyon on account of his health is unable to take the field, it is said that the Hill manager, J. Henry Roraback, Charles F. Brooker and even Fyler himself have had several very confidential interviews with the judge within the past few days.

There is scarcely any question but that Judge Walsh would deliver to Hill five or six votes that he is said to have secured for Brandegee. If it were not shown him that with Hill in the Senate he could have the nomination for Congress in Hill's place. But what can promise to deliver the county would place if it becomes vacant and has a candidate for it in the person of Don Warner. Besides there would be considerable opposition to the wish from Republicans in his own county.

TRAILING THE MISSING CLERGYMAN

Search for Man Suspected of Murder at Battle Run Continues.

(Special from United Press.)

Port Huron, Mich., Jan. 9.—The trail of the Rev. John C. Carmichael which the police are following in their efforts to unravel the Battle Creek stove murder mystery leads today in two directions—one towards his old home in Grant, Neb., the other to the waters of the St. Clair river.

Rev. C. W. Baldwin, a friend of the hunted man advanced the theory that Carmichael had drowned himself in the river. The sheriff would agree with the story that a man answering the clergyman's description was seen near the river the morning after the murder. The theory is also supported by the knowledge of Carmichael's morbid condition.

The report that he is travelling toward Grant, Neb., arose from the discovery that a man resembling the clergyman bought a ticket in Detroit for Chicago last Thursday. On the strength of this discovery the sheriff has wired the Chicago police to keep a close watch.

WINNING TEAM PROMISED FANS

O'Rourke Has Signed Pitcher with Great Record in Old New Hampshire.

Baseball Veteran Home from Session of National Baseball Commission is Loaded to Muzzle with Latest News of Diamond.

Manager O'Rourke, of the local baseball team, returned home last night, from a strenuous session of the National Baseball commission which was held in Cincinnati. Mr. O'Rourke says that the most important matter taken up was the claims of the Eastern League and the American Association for a better classification of their clubs under the National agreement. Both leagues were turned down when it came to a question of having representatives on the National Board, which is the highest authority in organized baseball. The two dissenting league representatives clearly showed that they wanted to be put on a footing with the two major leagues, or to be independent. As there can only be two parties to a league agreement, and not a third, and organization outside of those two are enemies to organized baseball. The two dissenting organizations, along with the Pacific Coast league, were placed in a class by themselves "AA." They are allowed to draft as usual from the classes below Class "A" but each club can draft but one player from each of the clubs in Class "A," and can not do this if a major league team drafts a man from any Class "A" team. As is well known, the Eastern League desires to take on Trenton, of the Tri-State league, in place of Montreal, and Syracuse, in the New York league. In place of Toronto. This is a clear breach of the national rule, in that a league cannot go into another league unless satisfactory to that league, and take the town that the latter has put on a paying basis.

It was thought locally that "Pop" Foster would put in an application for re-instatement into organized baseball. No such thing occurred at the meeting during the week, but he will probably do so in the future. The application of "Al" O'Dell was unanimously turned down by the commission. Good players in the Tri-State league will find it hard sledding during the coming season as the salary limit has been fixed at $2,300 per month and not more than $200 to any one player.

Manager O'Rourke states that he has lined out already for a championship team for 1909 and will give the local fans their money's worth this season. He has signed a new man in Walter Brooks, from New Hampshire, a pitcher, who comes on the recommendation of authorities on baseball, and who has made a name for himself around the granite and Green Mountain States. "H" Ladd is the first of last season's players to sign his name to a contract.

TOOL BURGLAR'S EXTENSIVE FIELD

Detective Hackett has found a large number of tools in local pawn shops pledged there by Henry C. Cluess the professional tool thief who is held for the superior court on two charges of statutory burglary. No one has appeared to claim the tools and it is believed that they may have been stolen from houses in some other city. The reports are continually reaching the police which confirm their opinion of the extensive territory covered by Cluess's operations.

YOUNG PAYMASTER SETTLES WITH BRASS COMPANY

Albert R. Smith is Discharged from Custody After Session with Captain Arnold.

Young Man's Difficulty Grew Out of Disappearance of Pay Envelopes—Those Containing Largest Sums Were Ones that Vanished.

Albert R. Smith, who was taken to police headquarters yesterday and locked up for investigation, was questioned by Captain Arnold in the afternoon concerning the money missing from the paymaster's department of the Bridgeport Brass Company, where Smith has been employed for eight years. Guy P. Miller, assistant secretary of the Brass Company, was present and Smith made a statement which relieved the other clerks in the paymaster's department of suspicion. He said that rather than submit his family to the disgrace of a public trial he would reimburse the company for his loss. A settlement satisfactory to the company was reached, and Smith was discharged.

The amount lost by the company through the paymaster's department will reach between $700 and $800. The pay envelopes are prepared by the paymaster, checked, and then turned over to the assistants, who deliver them. One batch is brought to this side of the river to pay the employees in the Housatonic avenue plant. The duties fall upon different assistants at different times. The envelopes which disappeared were always those of the men receiving the largest pay.

CHAUFFEUR AND FRIEND PINNED UNDER MACHINE AFTER STRIKING WAGON.

(Special from United Press.)

South Norwalk, Jan. 9.—What might have been a fatal automobile accident was reported here today from Darien. Joseph H. Mechaly, of the firm of Mechaly Brothers, automobile dealers of Darien, was passing through that town with a friend, according to the report, when his machine crashed into a horse and wagon owned by Dr. Hexamer of Stamford. The physician was in the wagon, it is said, but it was driven by an Italian who was accompanied by a boy. The auto was badly smashed and the impact and then turned turtle, pinning Mechaly and his friend under the steering gear. They were not injured and extricated themselves with the aid of bystanders. The two in Dr. Hexamer's wagon were thrown out but not badly hurt. The auto was badly smashed as was the wagon.

ROONEY ASSAULTED MOTHER, AGED 70

Dan Rooney was charged in the City court this morning, with assault on his mother, drunkenness, and each of the peace. The family live in Carroll avenue. The testimony revealed the fact that Rooney came home last night intoxicated and assaulted his mother, who is 70 years old. Her cries aroused the neighborhood and the police were called. Judge Foster fined the accused $5 and costs and imposed a jail sentence of 30 days. Rooney appealed and his bond was fixed at $75.

SWIFT CRUISER IN SOUND.

(Special from United Press.)

New London, Jan. 9.—After a brief stay in port over night the scout cruiser Birmingham, the fastest vessel in the United States navy, left again today on her round up and down the Sound, testing and wearing down the rough edges of her engines and gear. The ship came in last night about 5 o'clock and anchored just below the lighthouse, but no one came ashore from her. She left early this morning. It was New London's first good look at the swift cruiser.

BRIDGE COMMISSION ISSUES STATEMENT

Explains Award of Contract to Successful Bidder.

Contract Calls for New Bridge Over Pequonnock River in Congress Street to Be Completed Nov. 8, 1909—Figures of Bidders.

The following statement was today issued by the commission in charge of the new bridge in Congress St.: "The Congress Street Bridge Commission yesterday signed the contract with The Snare & Triest Co. to build the Congress Street Bridge.

"The contract was given to this concern for the reason that in the opinion of the Commission they were entitled to it from the time of the figuring up of the original bids from several parties. After it was found that we could not give the contract to any of the original bids, we invited the four lowest to revise their figures, and when the second or revised figures were received, the Commission had no hesitancy in awarding contract to this concern. Full investigation was made as to their reliability and responsibility, and while the accepted bid was a trifle higher than the lowest, the Commission deemed it for the best interests of the city to accept it.

"As the price given was on the unit basis, the Commission can only give the approximate amount of the bid, but assuming the quantities given by the Engineer to be correct, the amount of the contract is $254,000 in round numbers.

"Aside from the amount of the contract which only brings the roadway grade to one foot below the finished grade at completion, there will be other expenses, viz.: royalty to The Snare & Triest Lift Bridge Company for draw span, engineering expense, paying the roadway, lighting the bridge, etc., which as near as can be estimated at present will bring the total cost of the bridge within the amount set aside for the purpose.

"The approximate amount of the bids were as follows:

Merrill-Ruckge Construction Co.	$349,833
The Phoenix Construction Co.	$328,171
The Goodwin Construction Co.	$327,455
C. W. Blakeley & Sons	297,298
The A. E. Sanford Co.	271,497
Holbrook, Sabot & Rollins	270,298
Snare & Triest	264,133
O'Brien Construction Co.	262,949

"The work shall be started not later than Jan. 18, 1909 and completed on or before Nov. 8, 1909.

"The Congress Street Bridge Commission. H. E. French, Secretary."

STATE REBUTTAL IN HAINS CASE

Justice Crane Wants All Testimony Concluded by Tonight.

(Special from United Press.)

Flushing, Jan. 9.—With the Thornton J. Hains murder trial narrowed into the rebuttal stage there was little left to the proceedings today although the sensationalists started their usual crop of rumors.

Among the best of these was the report that Mrs. Claudia Hains was accused of the murder. The prosecution of newspapermen gathered about a female form that had entered the courtroom heavily swathed in a few dozen yards of sombre veiling. The moment the woman removed her face covering the story fell flat.

Then came a report that Charles L. Libby, father of Mrs. Claudia Hains was in court to testify against her brother, John Libby, a prosecutor. Darin indignantly denied this. "It is a lie," he said, "Mr. Libby is in Boston and I don't know him. But if for any reason the court should decide his presence here will be produced."

The proceedings moved sluggishly today. The witnesses in rebuttal were those who had previously testified for the prosecution and their evidence categorical denials of statements made by the defense's witnesses on the stand.

For the first time in years in New York, an all Saturday session of a murder trial was held. Justice Crane said: "This case must go to the jury by Thursday of next week."

MILFORD MURDER CASE.

(Special from United Press.)

New Haven, Jan. 9.—The grand jury met today to consider the evidence against John Corsak, a Milford man, charged with murder on the night of October 18 of Peter Miller. About a dozen witnesses were heard following which the jury went into secret session. The men were farmhands near Milford and Miller's body was found in a pond with the skull fractured. Corsak was the last man seen with him.

PROBABLY FATALLY BURNED.

Mystic, Jan. 9.—While carrying out a pan of ashes at her home in Stonington today, Mrs. George W. Burch was so seriously burned that it is feared she will die. As Mrs. Burch stepped from the door her apron was blown against the hot ashes, catching fire. Fanned by the breeze, her clothing flamed up and the woman was enveloped in fire. Edward Denny who was nearby heard her screams and running to her, threw his heavy overcoat about her. He smothered the flames but not before Mrs. Burch's horribly burned on her legs and body. Physicians who attended her said they feared she could not recover.

WHEELER, NOT SWINDLER, GOT MR. KING'S RENT

Well Known Lawyer Thought He Was Paying One Account, But It Was Another.

Therefore the Police Have Suspended Search for a "Slick" Stranger Posing as a Collector for Prindle & Cole—James Staples & Co. Give Proper Credit.

The alleged swindler who collected $15 from Attorney Clitus H. King a few days ago turns out to be Wilmot Fitch Wheeler, a member of the Fairfield County Bar, who represents the banking firm of James Staples & Co. He called at the office of Attorney King, Monday, to collect an account. Attorney King never had met Attorney Wheeler, and supposed he was the collector for Prindle & Cole, the agents who collect the rents in the Warner building, and paid $15, which was credited to him by the firm of James Staples & Co. So Attorney King is not out anything by the deal, but his $15 has been credited on one account when he intended it for another.

Just what was said to carry the idea that Attorney Wheeler represented the firm of Prindle & Cole is not known, but Attorney Wheeler says he never intended to represent himself as anything but what he really was, the collector for the firm of James Staples & Co.

The brother lawyers of Attorney King consider the episode one of the best jokes of the season. The police have been notified that they need not be on the watch for a "slick stranger" of medium size and dressed in dark clothes, and no other tenants in the building paid their rent to the wrong man, but it is shown Mr. King will have to pay his rent again.
